

Sam Flanery: Business development at American Classic Construction

---

Extensive experience in the construction industry ranging from early position as a millwright and advancing to project manager for a large material handling contractor which oversaw projects throughout the US. My career later progressed into the sales and marketing arena with a focus in construction projects and materials. Personal strong points would include market expansion projects within the entire construction industry as well as product and procedure training and awareness.