As chair of the OSHA Practice Group, Matt oversees a team ensuring that clients in all industries are in compliance with the applicable OSHA regulations. When OSHA issues arise, Matt and his team represent clients at all stages, from the initiation of an inspection through the litigation of citations. Matt's goal with an OSHA inspection is to avoid the issuance of citations altogether, but when citations are issued, he has the experience, knowledge, and credibility needed to resolve them in the best way possible.

Matt is a proven advocate for his clients, and his practical and competitive nature allows him to achieve success both in and out of the courtroom, as well as positive outcomes for his clients at all stages in their OSHA matters. His creative and thoughtful approach to business and legal issues, coupled with his experience and intimate knowledge of the construction and general industry fields, allow him to serve as a trusted and effective adviser to his clients.
