

Specialty Granules LLC

From the roof to the road to the dinner table, our rocks improve lives.

Powered by more than 600 employees and driven by an insistence to innovate, SGI has been the leader in providing mineral-based roofing granules and aggregates to the North American building materials industry for nearly 100 years.

Consistent, high-quality mineral products, a commitment to science-backed solutions, and exceptional customer service are what sets SGI apart — and has enabled long-term partnerships with business partners.

SGI granules are a roof's first line of defense against the elements.

Superior protection of a roof starts with the quality of the granules, and great roofing granules start with exceptional base rock. SGI employs a team of geologists to ensure the rock that is mined has the precise balance of physical properties, opacity, and inertness necessary for high-quality granules. Once mined, crushed, screened, and colored, SGI scientists conduct extensive testing on-site and at strategically located test deck sites to ensure granules produced are durable enough to withstand the elements and designed to last a lifetime.

Durability. Designed for all roofing needs.

SGI offers a range of science-backed solutions for customers, including:

- SolarShield® reflective granules
- Copper Color Guard® granules for algae resistance
- Specialty colors and custom blends
- Other customized services

SGI is driven to meet the evolving needs of the roofing industry — and is well-equipped to help customers exceed the high expectations of home-owners and business owners, alike.